

Lead Auditor

The HEA is one of the largest and most influential bodies within the highway electrical sector and as a trade association, represents organisations from a variety of areas within the industry, promoting our members and contributing to policy development. We are also the administrators of the Highway Electrical Registration Scheme (HERS) with the aim of ensuring that all operatives are trained and competent to carry out their work safely.

To fulfil this role, we rely on an occupationally competent team that enjoy their roles within this fast-moving industry and varied working environment. We are pleased that we have a number of opportunities for additional team members and are now currently looking to add to this team.

This role is extremely varied – no two days will be the same! You will be ensuring compliance of UK legislation and industry best practice through the management and completion of audits on organisations and HERS portfolios, all to satisfy the requirements of HEA Membership and National Highway Sector Scheme 8.

We are looking for self-motivated individuals that are also able to manage their own workload. Although based at home, this position involves occasional travel so you must be happy to be away from home on that basis.

You must have the following:

- an ISO9001:2015 QMS Auditor / Lead Auditor qualification or similar

We would also ideally like you to have:

- Experience and technical knowledge of one of the highway electrical sector areas, specifically Public Lighting, Traffic Signals and/or Motorway Communications/Technologies
- Good understanding of NHSS8 and HERS

Although training will be given as part of our ongoing commitment to staff CPD.

Whilst we are ideally looking for someone who can 'hit the ground running', the right attitude is imperative. We will consider all applicants, but what you do need is a genuine desire to maintain and improve industry standards – your potential, experience and knowledge may well be more important than your qualifications and we will support you in any training that we feel you require.

The position commands a competitive salary and additional benefits.
